To Whom it may concern;

After contacting a number of contractors through Angie's List and getting quotes from three, I contracted with New England's Level Contractors, LLC to strip and replace roofing, strip our old siding and replace it with vinyl siding and gutters. New England Level Contractors had no rating on Angie's List. John Cicciu was our point of contact and he gave us a very competitive bid and he clearly knows his business. I wanted to go with a local contractor. John was flexible about our meeting times, always on time or early for our appointments and kept in contact with me throughout the project.

We are very happy with the quality of the work and the time it took. There were two crews working in parallel to minimize the time to complete the project; they worked weekends to make up for rain days. Both crews were professional, prompt, clean, hard working and courteous to my wife and family. John checked in with his crews and with me almost daily. The house looks great and the site was left clean.

I would recommend New England Level Contractors and John to anyone considering this type of work.

Sincerely,
